

Explore the forgotten story of Indian Army soldiers who camped at Hampton Court Palace in the early 20th century, through a new display of previously unseen objects, photographs, film and personal stories.

In the early 20th century, soldiers from the Indian Army camped at Hampton Court Palace on a number of occasions. They were invited to join the coronation celebrations of Edward VII (1902), George V (1911) and George VI (1937) as well as the First World War peace parades in 1919. For some, this would have been their first visit to England.

This forgotten history is now on display at Hampton Court Palace from 29 September 2024. This exhibition aims to uncover the daily lives of soldiers whilst they were encamped within the Palace, showcase press and public reaction of the time as well as discovering the impact on the wider South Asian community of today.

- Vaanee Sarihyan, A little History of the Sikhs

Comfortable Footwear: Please request visitors to wear comfortable footwear. Hampton Court Palace is a 16th century palace, with lots of cobbled stone areas, where trainers, comfortable footwear are more suited.

Will the Heritage Day organisers support individuals with any support/access requirements?

We have worked with the teams at Historic Royal Palaces and other partners to provide the following:

Access: The Palace is largely an accessible venue, and the exhibition takes place on the ground floor. The Palace staff have access arrangements in place for wheelchair users.

The Clore Learning Centre and the Palace both have wheelchair accessible toilets.

We will endeavour to ensure wheelchair users can experience our exhibition and the wider Palace with equity and parity alongside non-disabled audiences/ participants.

Ticketing: For Heritage Days by A little History of the Sikh we have ensured all tickets are at the lowest price possible, to reduce financial barriers. All interested parties are asked to contact A little History of the Sikhs, if the ticket pricing for Heritage Days is a barrier, and we will ensure we can cover the ticket price. We aim to work on a trust basis, and all disabled people and their carers will not be asked to provide 'proof' of disability.

Accessible events for Deaf Audiences: If we are made aware in advance of visitors we will work with Historic Royal Palaces to ensure we have audio loops booked in for the day.

Neurodivergent/ learning disabled access: On our Heritage Days, we will offer the Clore learning Centre as a breakout area/ chillout space for use during the day.

Visitors for whom English is not a main language: The team at A little History of the Sikhs will be happy to present information in Punjabi, Urdu or Hindi for those attending who may feel more comfortable in engaging with the exhibition in their mother tongue.

Toilets: For our elders and visitors, we will ensure that all toilet locations are announced upon arrival. The exhibition area is also close to a set of toilets.
